

Mils Privacy Policy

A handwritten signature in dark brown ink, featuring a large, sweeping loop on the left and a series of smaller, connected strokes on the right.

Introduction

Mils is strongly committed to protecting your privacy while interacting with our content, products and services. We want to provide a safe and secure environment for you.

The purpose of this Privacy Policy is to tell you what kind of information we may gather about you when you visit our site and app, how we may use that information, whether we disclose it to anyone, and the choices you have regarding our use of, and your ability to correct this information. Our policy allows you to choose what kind and how much information you provide to us and to control how we use whatever information you give us. Our goal is to provide you with a satisfying experience while allowing you to control your privacy and to give you a means to voice any questions or concerns you may have.

This policy applies only to Mils and not to other companies' or organisations' websites to which Mils is linked.

Collection of information

Information is collected from you primarily to make it easier and more rewarding for you to use our services. Depending on the service you are accessing, you could be asked to provide information such as your name, email address or information about what you like and do not like. It is entirely your choice whether to respond to these questions or not.

Mils collects two types of information. The first type is anonymous information. For instance, we may collect information to tell us that five thousand people visit this Privacy Policy today, but we do not know their names, where they live or their date of birth - they are 'anonymous' to us. Another example of Mils collecting anonymous information is when Mils audiences are invited to respond to surveys on Mils website. The surveys may ask you for demographic information such as your age, gender and postcode. This information is collected for research purposes, is used in the aggregate (where possible), and remains anonymous. Many of the individuals who access our services are anonymous to us.

The second type of information that Mils collects is personal information. Mils will collect personal information that lets us know the specifics of who you are such as your name, email address, or postal address, when you provide it to us. With this information, Mils can provide a variety of personalised and enhanced services that are not available to anonymous users. We hope that you will find it beneficial to provide individually identifiable information about yourself to us because it will make our services more valuable to you.

Sometimes, we may specifically ask for personal information about you when you sign up to use a service. Certain information may be required, such as your name, age, internet address or screen name, billing address, type of computer, credit card number, in order to provide that service or product to you. This information may also be used to inform you of additional products and services which may interest you. You can choose not to receive such information when you are undertaking product or service registration on our website. We may also ask about your interests, but it is your choice whether to respond.

How much of your personal information that you choose to disclose to Mils is completely up to you. The only way we know something about you personally is if you provide it to us, for example when you take part in a discussion forum or enter one of the competitions on our websites.

Use of anonymous information

Mils automatically gathers anonymous information to monitor the use of Mils like the numbers and frequency of visitors to Mils and its areas. We only use such data in the aggregate. This collective data helps us determine how much our audiences use parts of the site, so we can improve Mils to assure that it is as appealing as we can make it for as many users as possible. Mils may publish or provide this aggregate data to other people.

Use of personal information

Mils will only use the personal information you have chosen to provide us for the purpose for which you provided it. Mils will not use it for any other purpose without your consent.

Cookies

Our Site uses cookies to deliver content specific to your interests. We also use cookies in the discussion forum enable users to remember their username/password.

Disclosure

There will be occasions where it will be necessary for Mils to disclose your personal information to third parties. Mils may be required by law to disclose the information, or Mils may be required to disclose your personal information to third parties to provide the service you have requested, for example, if you purchase products online from Mils, Mils may need to disclose your personal information to third parties in order to bill and deliver your products. Domain name registration is one obvious example where your details will be passed to the relevant domain registry. However, the disclosure will only be made where it is necessary to fulfil the purpose for which you disclosed your personal information. Otherwise than stated above, we do not disclose personal information that you may give us, such as your name, address, email address or telephone number, to any organisation or person outside Mils unless you have authorised us to do so. For example, when you contribute to an online forum you may want to publish your name and email address.

No sale of personal information

Under no circumstances will Mils sell or receive payment for licensing or disclosing your personal information.

Interacting with Mils

There are many interactive features on Mils that you can contribute to. These include: Guestbooks, Forums, Event Diaries, Reviews, Recipes, Online Voting, Community, Mailing Lists and Email. When interacting with Mils, we suggest that you use your discretion and exercise caution when providing your personal information.

Note that whenever you post personal information in publicly accessible places, such as chat rooms or message boards, this information becomes available to anyone with access to the internet. This information can be collected and used by others. In short, if you post personal information online that is accessible to the public, you may receive unsolicited messages from other parties in return. Therefore, we recommend that you refrain from posting any information that you do not want seen in these public areas.

For example, when participating in a Mils Communications PTY forum, guest book or chat area, your name will appear on the message board.

Ultimately, you are solely responsible for maintaining the secrecy of your passwords and/or any personal information. Be responsible whenever you are online.

Access and correction: personal data

If Mils holds your personal information Mils will where possible provide you with access to the information. Mils will take reasonable steps to correct the information so that it is accurate, complete and up to date.

Security

Mils operates secure data networks that are designed to protect your privacy and security.

Complaints about privacy

If you have any complaints relating to online privacy issues on our websites, please notify Mils. While Mils accepts no liability for any material or links posted to the service, we will investigate all complaints.

Changes to Mils privacy policy

If we decide to change the Mils Privacy Policy, we will post those changes here.

Contact

Rocketmail
Alexander-Derek Rein
Irmgardstr. 15
81479 Munich
Germany